Research Analysis Part 1: Data Analysis

MPED Canada

Twitter: @StrongCities

Great Research ... now what?

- ▶ Analyzing the research isn't as hard as it sounds.
- ▶ Analysis begins immediately during the first stakeholder interviews/group sessions and public focus groups.
- ▶ Project members will be involved through the entire research stage of the project and will be close to the results.

MPED Canada

Twitter: @StrongCities

Data Analysis

- ▶ Application of logic to understand the data which has been gathered about a subject
i.e. - frequencies, trends, correlation,
- ▶ Interpreting the information and making conclusions for place branding campaign and messaging
- ▶ What do the results mean for branding your city?

MPED Canada

Data analysis impacted by:

- ▶ Type of tool used to gather the data
- ▶ Quality of data
- ▶ Characteristics of data sample

MPED Canada

Twitter: @StrongCities

Qualitative Analysis

- ▶ Don't discount your initial observations.
- ▶ Document and summarize key takeaways at each stage and discuss as a project team.
- ▶ Key observations made will form the base of the brand platform and ultimately your strategy.

MPED Canada

Twitter: @StrongCities

Qualitative Analysis

- ▶ Reports generated from research firm will highlight key points.
- ▶ Balance key qualitative observations with survey findings and highlight consistencies.
- ▶ Breakdown of demographic results and cross-tabulations are a valuable tool.

MPED Canada

Quantitative vs. Qualitative data

- ▶ Quantitative data analysis:
 - ▶ Straight forward
 - ▶ Determine rankings, calculate averages
- ▶ Qualitative data analysis:
 - ▶ Organize data into categories
 - ▶ Identify patterns and themes
 - ▶ If possible, identify causation

MPED Canada

Twitter: @StrongCities

Interpreting Data

- ▶ Put it into perspective i.e. compare with what you expected
- ▶ Consider the data against your original goals
- ▶ Consider relevant context

MPED Canada

Twitter: @StrongCities

Recommendations & Conclusions

- ▶ Follow naturally from the data interpretation
 - ▶ “if ... then” statements
- ▶ Recommendations define course of action
 - ▶ Related to city branding the recommendations will reflect the key messaging needed to create a perception or change a perception of your city.
